

Important advice if you are travelling with pets

1080 baiting programs are carried out in Western Australia. 1080 is a poison used to control wild dogs, foxes, feral cats, feral pigs and rabbits.

- Keep pets close and under control at all times.
- Do not rely on the presence of 1080 warning signs.
- Consult with property owners prior to entering their properties.
- Treat all properties as possibly baited.

While 1080 warning signs are placed in visible areas on pastoral leases, national parks, nature reserves, State forests, Crown Land and main access roads in agricultural areas, these signs may not be in your immediate vicinity or may be weather damaged, removed or destroyed.

For further information contact:

- Department of Primary Industries and Regional Development (08) 9368 3080
- Department of Biodiversity, Conservation and Attractions - Parks and Wildlife Service (08) 9219 9000

Exercise caution to prevent your pets from being poisoned by 1080 baits.

If poisoning occurs,
please seek immediate veterinary assistance
or contact the Poisons Information Centre
on 13 11 26.

When travelling to WA from interstate please declare animal and plant material and products, place risk items in a quarantine bin or hand them to a quarantine inspector.

Have an enjoyable trip